Tesla Report

183.48

Tesla Stock Surges

Experts point to a few factors for Tesla's surge, which include a good fourth quarter earnings report and faster deliveries on the company's new Model Y car. Others highlight an enormous stock "short squeeze," where investors who were betting on Tesla's stock to dip closed their position, further increasing the stock price.

Tesla Stock After twitter

Stock maker's market capitalization is now down more than $275 billion since April 4.

Musk isn't doing Tesla any favors by providing scant details on how he will cover the $21 billion equity piece that he personally guaranteed. What's known is that Musk is using Tesla shares as collateral in the transaction. That has led to investor worry that the Tesla chief executive may sell some of his stake to fund the Twitter acquisition.

